Seed Treatment

Seed treatment is one of the management factors which help to produce good crops. There are many products available for treating seed and most of these have some advantages and some drawbacks. In general we want a seed treatment to give good control of diseases, to be easy to apply and not harmful to the seed. One of the oldest methods is the use of formaldehyde. This is only formally effective in disease control, is fairly easy to apply but can have very harmful effects on the seed even when carefully used. Therefore formaldehyde should not be used. The most effective of the seed treatments have been the mercury dusts. These are very effective in disease control, will not damage the seed in any way but they are not pleasant to work with. Still newer products classed as non-mercurials are available now. Some of these are only effective against one disease and so are not very useful, others give wider range of disease control. These products are more pleasant to work with and do not harm the seed. However, up to now the mercury dusts and slurry treatments are our best seed treatments.

Livestock Brands

If you have been thinking about getting a brand for your cattle this is a good time to apply for it so as to have it registered and ready for branding time this spring. Application forms are available at the office. The cost is small, two dollars for the first four years and one dollar for each four years afterwards.

Trees For 1958

The supply of trees for windbreaks and shelterbelts is getting small. If you have land ready for trees and haven't got your application in yet, it had better be done right away. The only cost for the trees is just the shipping charges from the nursery to your station.

Less than eight per cent of Canada's total area is classified as occupied farmland; an equal area, at present unoccupied, is considered suitable for agriculture.

Weekly Inspirational Corner

(Sponsored by an Irma Times reader)

Let us therefore fear, lest, a promise being left us of entering into His rest, any of you should seem to come short of it. For unto us was the gospel preached, as well as unto them; but the word preached did not profit them, not being mixed with faith in them that heard it. For the word of God is quick, and powerful, and sharper than any two-edged sword, piercing even to the dividing asunder of soul and spirit and of the joints and marrow, and is a discerner of the thoughts and intents of the heart.

Neither is there any creature that is not manifest in his sight; but, all things are naked and opened unto the eyes of him with whom we have to do.

News Report From Edmonton

By Ken Mason

Edmonton—The fourth session of the 19th Alberta Legislature opens in the capital city this week Thursday, and all indications point to a lively six or seven weeks of parliamentary activity.

Following the traditional color and ceremony of the Speech from the Throne and the reply from the Social Credit back benches, the House will get down to business Monday when Liberal leader J. Harper Prowse opens the Throne Speech debate.

Liquor and provincial-municipal financial relations still appear to be the major issues of the session.

Sometime during the first few weeks, the government will introduce an entirely new Liquor Control Act, with amendments in line with what the majority of Albertans requested in the province-wide plebiscite last October.

Main feature of the new act will be provision for new types of liquor outlets. No one outside the cabinet knows exactly what new types will be permitted, but it seems probable that Alberta will have cocktail bars and licensed dining rooms.

The people of the province made their wishes fairly clear in the October plebiscite, but that doesn't mean there won't be plenty of debate on the liquor issue. The House is still sharply divided in varying degrees of wetness and dryness, and there is plenty of room for argument on the extent to which liquor laws should be relaxed.

The major features of the long-awaited "new deal" in municipal financing have already been announced, but nothing will be official until Provincial Treasurer Ted Hinman brings down his budget, probably early in March.

It is expected that the changes will include increased municipal and school grants, no more low-interest loans, and abolition of the poll tax and personal property tax. In addition, the government will take over the total cost of child welfare and mothers' allowances. Both are now shared by the municipalities.

Opposition members will probably have lots to say about municipal matters. They'll undoubtedly ask some embarrassing questions about all the talk of possible new forms of taxation, propagated mainly by Mr. Hinman. Premier Manning has left the impression that this talk of more taxation has embarrassed him, and he made a point of telling a recent press conference that the government has no intention of imposing new or increased taxes.

The Opposition may be able to make the premier even more uncomfortable on this point, and it could prove interesting if someone asks for the report on what was accomplished by the provincial-municipal committee which spent about two years studying financial matters.

The province's interim financial statement, for the first nine months of the fiscal year, could provide ammunition for some vigorous attacks on the government. For the first time in years, the government is operating at a deficit. The report, released last week, shows a cash deficit of nearly $40,000,000 on operations to Dec. 31, 1957.

This could bring about another bitter debate over the oil and gas royalty dividends, with the Opposition asking how a government which is operating at a deficit can afford to give away nearly $11,000,000. The government will point out that the cut-back in oil sales resulted in lower revenue than had been anticipated, and that school loans and grants drained unprecedented amounts from the treasury. It can also be pointed out that the province spent nearly $50,000,000 this year to reduce its debt.

Among other important items expected this session are reports from royal commissions on northern development and teachers' salaries. The too early guess whether either report will result in legislation this year. The federal government's announcement that it is prepared to share in the cost of building northern roads may have a bearing on what is done with the northern development report.

Legislation also is expected to eliminate the 12-month residence clause from the new Al-

Rodino Couple Celebrate Golden Wedding Anniversary

Wednesday, February 26th

marked a happy occasion for Mr. and Mrs. Ahab Winfield of the Rodino district when they celebrated 50 years of married life. Their living room was tastefully decorated for the occasion with white bells and yellow streamers, and a lovely bouquet of golden mums presented to them by their great granddaughter, little Karina Crouse. A Westminster Chime Clock was presented to them by their grandchildren and their children presented them with a platform rocking chair.

Mr. and Mrs. Winfield held "open house" to their friends and neighbors in the afternoon. A delicious lunch was served by their two daughters, Mrs. J. Crouse and Mrs. E. Jones, assisted by Miss Grace Winfield and Miss Edna Jones, granddaughters of Mr. and Mrs. Winfield. A beautifully decorated 3-tiered wedding cake on a ruffled lace centrepiece and flanked by golden candles in crystal holders centred the table laid with a linen tablecloth (a wedding gift 50 years ago).

The bride and groom of 50 years received many lovely gifts including a hostess arm rocker from the Rodino community. Congratulations were received from many unable to be present including a niece of Mrs. Winfield's in Derbyshire, England.

In the evening the family gathered for a delicious turkey supper prepared by Mrs. A. Winfield Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Winfield, the former Alice Gregory, were married at Hulland, Derbyshire, England, and lived at Amboston till they moved to Laneshire in 1922. In the spring of 1929 they decided to come to Canada and in May of that year arrived with their family, settling in the Rodino district, north of Kinsella, where they still reside.

They have 4 children, Alice, (Mrs. J. Crouse of Canyon, B.C.); Alfred at home; Ahab, son of Rodino and Beatrice (Mrs. Edgar Jones of Irma). There are also 15 grandchildren and one great-grandchild, the aforementioned Karina Crouse of Calgary.

All their friends wish Mr. and Mrs. Winfield many more happy anniversaries.

Canada's 1957 mineral production reached the record value of $2,134 million, compared to $1,865 million in 1956. In value of production Alberta displaced Quebec for second place to Ontario in the year.

Viking Curling Club Newspaper Car Bingo

The Viking Curling Club is staging a Newspaper Car Bingo, the proceeds of which are going into improvements of the Curling Club.

All members of the curling club will be given 22 cards to sell. Instructions are printed on the reverse side of the cards. One new feature of this Bingo is that the seller of the winning card for the car will be given $25.00.

There are only 3000 cards sold and no two cards are the same. In the past we have not had ties for the car and both cars have gone out of town. Someone here should win it this time.

Ken Hilliker has consented to run the draw each Saturday evening from the stage of the Brock Theatre, and also keep the master card. The first draw is Saturday, March 1, 1958.

Besides the curling club members having cards, business places in town will handle them. The numbers will be printed each week in all the surrounding newspapers.

Dr. Allan Klein is the Treasurer for the Curling Club Newspaper Car Bingo Committee. Card sellers who wish to settle up for cards sold should leave money with him.

berta hospital insurance plan once the federal government begins contributing toward the cost.

These are the main items of business as they shape up at present. Of course, there are always other issues that develop as the political pot boils, and sometimes they're the most interesting of all.

A Vacation Sept. 1957

My son invited me one day to go to Banff so far away. As I had not been there before, A pleasant treat was still in store.

When we left Edmonton at nine, The weather it was far from fine. But when at Red Deer we stopped to dine

The sun was shining all the time. The trees were green and gold and red

When off to Calgary we sped, And when we reached this nice town

We sought a place to lay us down. A swell motel we finally found

With easy chairs to lounge around. We had everything we could desire.

We even had a nice warm fire. Sunday morning was bright and gay

But we did not have long to stay, We journeyed to the park and zoo

As we had nothing else to do. Shortly after one p.m.

We started on our way again. The scenic views were all aglow

No artist's brush could make them so. At Banff we found a cottage fair

With flowers blooming everywhere. The mountains towering high above

A place that anyone would love. There seemed no end to beauty spots

With water boiling from the rocks. We climbed the mountain round and round

Until the chair-lift we found. Next we came to Lake Louise

A pretty place among the trees. The ice fields were a magic treat

With ice and snow piled wide and deep. At Jasper Park we did not roam

As we were anxious to get home. We saw the flowers and mountains high

It seemed their peaks would reach the sky. At Edson we stopped to eat

We could not call the food a treat. When we were on our way once more

The rain it really then did pour. And now in closing may I say

I've had a splendid holiday. And thanks a million to my son

For treating me to so much fun. —Composed by E. C. Elliott.

The CCF Says

The recent New Zealand election which brought the Labour party back to power gave Social Credit a severe jolt. The Scotsman has published the fact that in the '54 election they had 11% of the total vote although they elected no members. In 1957 they still elected no members and their popular vote tumbled to 7%. There are evidently taken no more seriously in N.Z. than they are in Canada.

Winter Rations For Brood Sows

Pigs are not known for their ability to make extensive use of forage, whether pasture, hay or silage. But brood sows, even girls and specially yearling or older sows, come near being as herbivorous as ruminants and horses.

They may not have the large rumen of a cow, but they do have a large caecum of a horse, but they have a stomach of considerable size. The subject of pig feeding for forage or roughage. More and more we hear of the successful use of silage in brood sow rations.

This ability to utilize health, protecting forage therefore should be a part of farm profit, and a practical way of doing so is to use liberal amounts of alfalfa hay in winter rations of brood sows, and perhaps less extent, nursing sows.

Let us save a ton or two of the best hay available that we have, such as second cutting alfalfa, or alfalfa mixed with other legumes and grasses, just so it is leafy, green and sweet smelling. Grind this through a hammer mill equipped with a three-eighths inch screen, and we have a vitamin-rich feed that readily mixes with any ground grain or concentrate.

When added to a mixture in amounts of from 30 to 40 per

FLAX SEED GERMINATES POORLY

GERMINATION TESTS URGENT

One of the most disappointing flax crops on record was harvested in the Prairie Provinces in 1957. No factor was more important in reducing yields and grades of the 1957 flax crop than the virus disease known as "Aster Yellow". Furthermore, this disease has seriously impaired or lowered the vitality of the seed. In plan works, much of the flax seed produced in the Prairie Provinces in 1957 is germinating very poorly.

Germination Results. So far this season our own seed testing laboratory has completed germination tests on 864 farmers' seed samples of flax from the crop of 1957. Here are the results. No less than 82% of these samples failed to give a germination percentage of more than 51%. Furthermore, 40% of the samples germinated less than 61%; and what is more important, 15% of all samples tested has given a germination percentage of less than 50%. In no season has the germination situation in flax been more serious than it is in this year.

A Warning. The results of these germination tests on flax seed from the 1957 crop emphasize the following points: (1) Be sure and have all your flax seed stocks tested for germination this year. (2) Exercise special care in cleaning flax seed. Get rid of all those small, light, weak seeds. They won't germinate—so why keep them for seed. (3) This is one year when seed treatment of flax will pay high dividends. Don't fail to treat all your flax seed with one of the recommended organic mercury chemicals.

Be Wise. As every flax grower knows, planting low-germinating flax seed can only result in a weedy field stands. We therefore urge every farmer to have any flax from the 1957 crop he is planning on using for seed tested for germination. Free germination tests are offered by local elevator agents of the Line Elevator Companies limited about the province. Be wise. Have your flax seed tested for germination.

PICTURES OF THE WEEK

MOTHER OF TWINS ON WAY TO MANHOOD - Rome, Italy - The lady, or gentleman, in these pictures is Mrs. Rosina Traini, 29-year-old mother of twins, who says she is becoming a man, stone by stone, lost her husband shortly after the birth of the twins, who are now three years old. She plans to go to England for surgery that will complete her sex transformation. At left above, Rosina, an expert cook, samples some of her soup. In center, she makes an imposing figure among the neighbors outside her home. At right, she flexes her biceps - good enough for the village blacksmith.

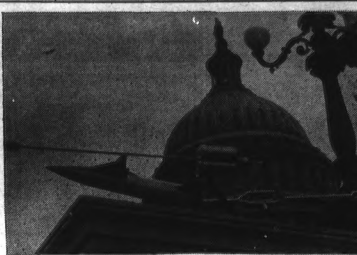

PHILIPPINES HONOR GUERRILLA LEADER - Washington, D.C. - Philippine Ambassador Carlos P. Romulo, Left, pins the Philippine Legion of Honor, Degree of Commander, on Robert Lapman of Detroit, Michigan. Lapman was cited for commanding a Guerilla band of some fifteen thousand Americans and Philippines which harassed the Japanese on Luzon from the fall of Corregidor in 1942 until the return of the Americans in 1945.

AT HOME WITH THE RODGERS - Brooklyn, N.Y. - With Spring Training just around the corner, Gil Rodgers of the Los Angeles Dodgers is spending as much time with his family as possible before he heads South to Vero Beach, Fla. He is shown here with his wife and the children at their home.

ON TOP OF THE WORLD - Miami Beach, Fla. - Actress Jayne Mansfield gets a lift from her muscle man hubby, Mickey Hargitay, at poolside of the Eden Rock Hotel in Miami Beach. They are spending their honeymoon in the Land of Sunshine.

ACCENT ON THE SPACE AGE AT THE CAPITOL - Washington, D.C. - These models of space transportation of the future give the staid U. S. Capitol a science-fiction atmosphere as they are photographed against The Capitol Dome. The three models are a man-carrying rocket - the torpedo-like one with wings and rudder to carry a man from Earth to an orbit - a space station (Right), and a nuclear-powered space vehicle (long rod with large tanks at one end and a single tank at the other).

NEW TRANSPORTER CARRIES FLUID IN TIRES - Clintonville, Wis. - An unusual new rolling fluid transporter, whose 10 huge rubber tire bags towed by a pillow-top Tercruzer can transport 5,000 gallons of fuel or other liquids over terrain inaccessible to conventional tank trucks, has been developed for the Army's Transportation Research and Engineering Command. The transporter has 10 fluid carriers, each 5 feet high, 3/4 foot wide, and 500-gallon capacity, mounted in pairs on axles and towing assemblies equipped with filling and emptying and braking systems.

The apple is our national fruit and has a wider variety of uses than any other fruit on the market. To show you how versatile apples may be, and if you have run out of ideas of serving apple salads or desserts perhaps the following suggestions will help:

1. Serve apple sauce spiced or unsipped with pancakes or waffles; as a topping for rice or custard desserts, between layers of cake; or as a spread in an omelet. For additional flavor add lemon juice, grated rind, a dash of nutmeg or cinnamon.

2. Baked Apple - The cavities maybe filled with sugar and cinnamon; brown sugar and butter, dried chopped fruits or jelly, jams, or conserve. As an accompaniment whipped cream or custard maybe used.

3. Serve apples in salads - combine equal amounts of chopped apple with cabbage, carrots or celery or with cherries, peaches, pears or grapes in a fruit salad.

For a change, perhaps you will try:

Waldorf Salad
Cut well flavored red apples into small even cubes. Sprinkle with lemon juice to prevent discoloration. To each cup add 1/2 cup of finely chopped celery and 5 tablespoons mayonnaise or cooked dressing. Mix and season to taste. Serve on a lettuce leaf and garnish with chopped walnuts.

News Report from Edmonton

EDMONTON - Well, it seems that once again the peaceful Alberta countryside is going to reverberate to the thunder and crash of a federal election campaign.

The announcement by Prime Minister Diefenbaker was inevitable in view of the awkward situation when a minority government is in power, even if it does seem too soon for another general election. One thing is for sure: no one can say the political scene in Canada has been dull these past few months.

One of the main battlefields in the federal campaign undoubtedly will be the Alberta legislature. The date of the election, March 31, falls nicely during the legislative session.

Don't be surprised if politicians of all parties use legislative debate a handy platform for giving out propaganda at the federal campaign level.

Look for the three Conservative MLA's in particular, to put on a bigger show than they have in the past. Last June's results should give the Tory party in Alberta a shot in the arm. J. Percy Page, PC House Leader, has already predicted the Tories will gain two extra federal seats in Alberta and three in B.C.

He could be right. The Tories stand a good chance of picking up Edmonton-Strathcona, they came remarkably close in June last, in view of the party's success, it might not be hard to nab another. Of course, Social Credit is still a potent force in Alberta.

Whatever happens, the next couple of months will be anything but dull. And if the excitement dies down later in the year that situation will be only temporary, because 1959 is very likely a provincial election year.

Full marks to Alberta Highways Minister Gordon Taylor for his appearance before the U.S.-Alaska International Rail and Road Commission in Washington, D.C., last week.

Mr. Taylor went to Washington to present the case for Alberta retaining the major share of traffic between Alaska and the mainland United States.

As a result of his appearance, the commission decided to include Alberta in its studies. Under its original terms of reference, it was restricted to studying possibilities of routes

Dobry Rink Featured On Edmonton Curling Club Poster

The Lums Dobry rink that won the visitors' aggregate competition at the Edmonton curling club annual bonspiel last year is featured on the poster announcing the annual bonspiel sponsored by the Alberta Curling Association being held in Edmonton starting March 10th. With Dobry in the picture are George Anderson of Sedgewick, Don Cookson of Lougheed, and Gordon Maxwell of Viking.

through British Columbia. The commission was set up to explore the development of new links between the U.S. and Alaska.

Mr. Taylor argued that Alberta provides the "most logical" location for additional traffic, and added that the route through Alberta would serve as "the most easily defended, durable route in times of emergency."

The commission has already scheduled a visit to interior B.C. but now that it has learned about Alberta it may also visit this province.

Alberta's pink financial responsibility cards may soon be valid in British Columbia and Manitoba. It was announced last week that a reciprocal agreement has been reached with Manitoba, and government spokesman said it is hoped B.C. may soon come in.

The agreement is the first between any two provinces, but Highways Minister Taylor says he hopes it will lead ultimately to reciprocal agreements between all provinces.

Last week's announcement means Alberta pink cards are valid proof of financial responsibility in Manitoba, and it is no longer necessary to obtain a Manitoba non-resident card.

The Borden royal commission on energy opened hearings in Calgary last week, and while no promises were made it appeared likely Premier Manning's request for an interim report will be granted.

Mr. Manning has asked for a report on oil and natural gas, mainly so the federal government can establish a national policy on gas export. The premier says lack of such a policy is stifling development work in Alberta.

The commission is devoting the first phase of its study to oil and natural gas.

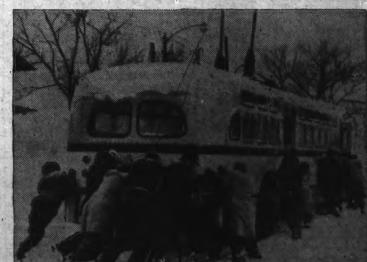

Teenage Curlers Defeat Oldtimers

A Viking teenage rink composed of Peter McArthur, Dave McArthur, Billy Brower and Herman Hagen has shown remarkable ability in the game of curling that is supposed to be "an old man's game." They won the Grand Challenge event at Irma in the men'sspiel, and in thatspiel defeated an Irma rink skipped by none other than our old friend Van Camp who annually attends the Viking Frielspiel with a high powered rink.

The McArthur rink also took the Grand Challenge at Lougheed by defeating such well known curlers as Don Cookson and George Anderson. We hear they will enter the Edmontonspiel come March 10th.

CHILDREN ARE 'EYES' FOR MOM AND DAD - Detroit, Michigan - Robert Mahoney, a Michigan State Representative, and his wife, Jennie, 38, who met when they were students at a school for the blind in Lansing, Michigan are shown teaching Braille to their children, who serve as their "eyes". Four of the eight Mahoney youngsters are shown. While 16-month-old Matt will help, Dad gives a Braille lesson to Dennis, 6, Colleen, 7, and Joey, 8.

COOPERATIVE PASSENGERS - Kansas City, Mo. - Even a man with a cane got out to add his muscle power to that of other passengers in an attempt to get this stalled trolley-bus moving during big snowstorm in Kansas City. The storm, which lasted in 48 years, buried the Greater Kansas City Area, closed schools and factories and paralyzed traffic.

These are three very important questions to every farmer planning to use a fertilizer — what analysis should he choose . . . when should he apply it . . . and how much per acre should he apply?

Alberta farmers can find the answer to these questions in a new Fertilizer Recommendation Pamphlet, now available from all Elephant Brand Fertilizer agents and sales offices. The pamphlet gives information on the correct fertilizer for all Alberta soil types and major crops, as well as the most effective application rates.

The information contained in the new Fertilizer Recommendation Pamphlet has been compiled with a background of more than 25 years of fertilizer test work and practical experience, on the Prairies. The pamphlet is designed as a service guide for Alberta farmers, to ensure a sound fertilizer investment. Free copies may be obtained from any Elephant Brand Fertilizer agent.
